

Event Name: National Vaccination Day Awareness Program and Rally

Date: 16th March 2026

Time: 10:00 AM

Venue: Umarda Village

Organized by: Venkateshwar College of Nursing, STU

1. Introduction

On the occasion of National Vaccination Day, Venkateshwar College of Nursing organized a comprehensive awareness program and rally. The event was designed to engage faculty members and students in community health advocacy, focusing on the critical importance of immunization. This initiative aligns with the institution's commitment to promoting public health and fostering social responsibility among nursing professionals.

2. Objectives

- To promote awareness regarding the benefits of vaccination within the local community.
- To encourage community participation in immunization programs to improve public health outcomes.
- To provide nursing students with practical experience in community health nursing and social advocacy.
- To educate the residents of Umarda Village on the importance of timely vaccinations.

3. Event Highlights

- The program was executed in two primary phases to maximize impact:
- Vaccination Awareness Oath: The event commenced at 10:00 AM on the college premises with a formal oath ceremony. Faculty and students of M.Sc. nursing and B.Sc. nursing pledged to spread knowledge and support immunization efforts.
- Awareness Rally: Following the oath, participants proceeded to Umarda Village for an awareness rally.
- Community Engagement: During the rally, students and faculty interacted with village residents to spread knowledge about the importance of vaccination in preventing disease.

4. Outcomes

- Community Awareness: The rally successfully disseminated information about the life-saving benefits of vaccines to the rural population of Umarda.
- Professional Development: Students gained hands-on experience in conducting a community outreach program, bridging the gap between theoretical knowledge and field-based health promotion.
- Social Responsibility: The participants demonstrated a strong sense of community service by actively engaging in a national health initiative.
- Increased Participation: The activity encouraged local residents to participate more actively in upcoming immunization drives.

5. Conclusion

The National Vaccination Day awareness program was a successful initiative that highlighted the vital role of nursing institutions in community health. By combining a formal oath with a grassroots rally, Venkateshwar College of Nursing effectively promoted the message of immunization, contributing to the institute's vision of producing socially conscious healthcare professionals.
