Introduction

The Venkateshwar College of Nursing, Umarda, Udaipur, issued a notice announcing a skill development program focused on Critical Health Care: Patient Centric Communication for nursing students. The program aimed to equip students with essential tools and techniques to foster effective patient communication, build trust, and ensure clear, respectful dialogue in clinical settings.

Objective

The primary objectives of the program were:

- To teach nursing students patient-centric communication skills.
- To enable students to build trust and rapport with patients.
- To ensure clear, respectful, and empathetic dialogue in healthcare interactions.
- To enhance the overall quality of patient care through improved communication.

Event Highlights

- Topic: Critical Health Care – Patient Centric Communication.
- Date: As per the notice, the session was scheduled after the notice date (specific date not given).
- Target Audience: Nursing students of Venkateshwar College of Nursing.
- The session provided practical techniques for connecting with patients and managing communication in critical care scenarios.
- Emphasis was placed on respectful and empathetic interaction to improve patient experiences.

Outcomes

The program resulted in:

- Nursing students gaining essential communication tools for patient-centric care.
- Improved ability among students to build trust and rapport with patients.
- Enhanced skills in delivering clear and respectful dialogue in clinical environments.
- Better preparedness of students to handle communication in critical health care situations.

Conclusion

The skill development program on Patient Centric Communication was a beneficial initiative for nursing students, enabling them to acquire vital communication skills necessary for effective patient care in critical health settings. The program contributed to nurturing compassionate and competent future nursing professionals.
